UCLA LIBRARY

LETTER FROM THE UNIVERSITY
LIBRARIAN

“Carlos, what are you stressing over?”

— EDDIE, A TYPICAL UCLA UNDERGRADUATE

Imagine, or remember, when you first set foot on the UCLA campus – it’s hard not to be daunted simply by the physical scale of the place. Hundreds of buildings spill across some four hundred acres, filled with nearly forty thousand undergraduate and graduate students and more than three thousand faculty. Just walking across campus during the breaks between classes can be a challenge!

Then there’s the astonishing academic scale: the College, eleven professional schools, two hundred degree programs. The UCLA Library provides materials and services to support teaching and research in all of them: nearly eight million books, eighty thousand journal subscriptions, sixty thousand electronic resources, millions of pages of manuscripts and archives. No wonder Carlos is stressed; how do you find your way through this bewildering wealth of physical and intellectual assets?

Come to the Library; that’s what Carlos and Eddie did. These two fictional undergraduates, the main characters in our online “Bruin Success with Less Stress” tutorial, are our guides for this 2003-04 annual report.

The Library’s mission is not simply to collect materials and make them accessible for current and future generations. It is also to make connections for our users between their questions and our information, and to teach them how to make connections for themselves during their years at UCLA and throughout the rest of their lives – what we call “information literacy.”

If you don’t know where a building is, we’ll show you on a map, then give you the map so you can find it and other buildings on your own next time. If you don’t know where to start on a research assignment or project, we’ll walk you through the steps and appropriate resources and suggest guidelines so you can get started on your own next time. If you need a quiet, all-night study space or a soft chair to relax in for a few minutes, we’ve got those as well.

Although you’ll see the faces of Carlos and Eddie, their voices are those of real students. As they help us highlight our collections, services, staff, and donors for the 2003-04 fiscal year, they’ll remind us that the true heart of the Library isn’t the books or buildings; it’s the students, faculty, and scholars across campus and around the world who enter our physical and virtual doors every day.

Gary E. Strong
University Librarian

COLLECTIONS

HOW COULD THERE BE SO MUCH INFORMATION AVAILABLE AT HAND??

Countless students like Carlos and Eddie discover, or rediscover, the breadth and depth of UCLA Library collections each year. They come in through the front doors and through the Web site, looking for everything from an article for a paper due tomorrow to an idea for a dissertation topic years away from full realization.

I WAS A LITTLE AMAZED!

SIGNIFICANT ACQUISITIONS 2003-04

Louise M. Darling Biomedical Library

UpToDate

An online resource that answers health professionals' clinical questions by summarizing published evidence and making specific recommendations for patient care.

InfoRetriever

Searches evidence-based content and tools, including abstracts from more than one hundred journals, more than two hundred decision-support tools, more than two thousand diagnostic calculators supporting selection and interpretation of diagnostic tests, and more than seven hundred summaries of evidence-based practice guidelines.

Online version of the most frequently used encyclopedia in Korean studies.

To keep up with ever-expanding fields of inquiry on campus, the Library's subject specialists added new resources to the collections in fiscal year 2003-04 on topics ranging from art history to zoology. A few particularly significant additions are listed on these pages.

ARTS LIBRARY

In 1951 comedian Harvey Lembeck moved from the nightclub and Broadway stage to the movie screen and quickly found a niche as the wise-guy comedy relief in war films, most notably "Stalag 17" (1953), in which he repeated his stage role. He also appeared on the popular 1950s Phil Silvers comedy show "You'll Never Get Rich" and in the '60s "beach party" movies, then directed a number of television sitcom episodes in the '70s and '80s and ran a training school for aspiring comedians. The Arts Library Special Collections acquired Lembeck's papers, which contain scripts and miscellaneous documents related to his career and enhance the library's strong holdings of film and television scripts, personal papers of prominent directors and performers, and comedic materials.

LOUISE M. DARLING BIOMEDICAL LIBRARY

When clinicians today have questions about infectious diseases, they can turn to Gideon – the Global Infectious Disease and Epidemiology Network. This user-friendly, interactive online application provides diagnostic and reference information in the fields of tropical and infectious diseases, epidemiology, microbiology, and anti-microbial chemotherapy.

When clinicians four hundred years ago had questions about cures, they turned to books like Tratado de raras, y peregrinas yerbas: que se han hallado en esta corte, y sus ... virtudes, y la diferencia que ay entre el antiquo abrotano, y la natural, y legitima planta

Kindai Nihon Kirisutokyōshinbun shōsei: dai 2-3-ki:
microfilm collection of thirty-four newspapers on Japanese Christianity published between 1880 and 1945.

Taibei gu gong bo wu yuan zhen cang shu hua
Original-size facsimiles of forty-four masterpieces of Chinese painting and calligraphy created between the fourth and eighteenth centuries from the National Palace Museum in Taipei.

buphthalgo Y unas anotaciones a las yerbas mandragoras, macho, y hembra escrivelo el doctor D.to Mas de Murillo y Valverde ... (Madrid: 1674). Now housed in the Biomedical Library's History and Special Collections, this very rare Spanish work on herbal medicine by Tomás Murillo Velarde y Jurado (fl. 1650-73) is one of only two copies in the United States; the other is in the National Library of Medicine.

RICHARD C. RUDOLPH EAST ASIAN LIBRARY

Art, film studies, literature, and history - the UCLA Library has countless books on these subjects, and now the East Asian Library has one hundred more that differ in one crucial way from holdings in other campus libraries: they're in vernacular Chinese, Japanese, and Korean. Purchased with funds from the Freeman Foundation, these reference texts and primary sources include the collected works of modern Chinese literary authors, indexes to Japanese pre-war journals, and subscriptions to a number of Korean online journals.

EUGENE AND MAXINE ROSENFELD MANAGEMENT LIBRARY

As the global economy has grown more complex, research resources have grown more sophisticated. Datamonitor Business Information Center combines facts and analysis in one searchable database that contains more than ten thousand company profiles, more than two thousand industry profiles, and more than fifty country profiles. In addition, a news and comment section provides access to the most current news as well as commentary on its likely effects on companies and consumers.

MUSIC LIBRARY

The Naxos Music Library is quite literally music to researchers' ears. This online resource contains an extensive collection of music digitally streamed upon request, including more than eight-five thousand tracks of classical, jazz, world, folk, and Chinese music from the Naxos, Marco Polo, and Dacapo catalogues.

And the Howard Morehead Collection of Jazz Photographs, acquired by the Music Library Special Collections, is music to researchers' eyes. A highly regarded Los Angeles still and video news photographer, Morehead photo-rock music radio producer and deejay, and John Van Hammersveld, graphic artist and designer of album covers and poster art.

The Negro League in Los Angeles mini-series Interviews with Negro League baseball players Neal Henderson and James Lewis; funded by the UCLA Institute of American Cultures.

Charles E. Young Research Library

Africans in the New World, 1493-1834 Unique microform resources from the collection of John Carter Brown, an ardent opponent of slavery and grand-nephew of leading abolitionist Moses Brown, who amassed a library documenting the African diaspora; covers the history of slavery and black culture and society in the Americas.

Baltic Biographical Archive Biographical reference works from 1581 to the present; includes more than 65,000 men and women.

Chicano Studies Center Library Serial Collection Reproduces primary source materials published by and on Latino communities throughout the United States and collected by the Chicano Studies Library at UC Berkeley.

Indonesian Haji: The Pilgrimage to Mecca from the Netherlands East Indies, 1872-1950 Documents Islam in Indonesia, the most populous Muslim country in the world.

Scandinavian Biographical Archive Contains entries on the lives of more than 155,500 people who lived between the eighth century and the latter part of the twentieth century.

Spider Trickster Tales from Jamaica: The Anansi Folk

Nearly five thousand handwritten stories giving variants on about two hundred basic trickster tales about animal or human protagonists featured in oral traditions worldwide; texts, written by Creole schoolchildren in 1930-31, also provide information about links between Jamaica and West African culture.

United Nations Treaty Collection Online versions of bilateral and multilateral treaties deposited with the UN Secretariat.

Western Books on Asia: From the Echols Collection on Southeast Asia at the Cornell University Library Microfilms of Western-language monographs on graphed many of the important jazz musicians of his time over the course of his career, including Louis Armstrong, Ray Charles, Miles Davis, Aretha Franklin, Dexter Gordon, and Billie Holiday, among others.

ORAL HISTORY PROGRAM

The Los Angeles-based Office of the Americas (OOA) conducts public information and education campaigns to further causes of justice and peace through North America, Mexico, Central America, and South America. The Oral History Program conducted an interview with OOA Director Blase Bonpane, a long-time peace activist, which supplements the OOA archives and Bonpane's papers housed in Charles E. Young Research Library Department of Special Collections.

CHARLES E. YOUNG RESEARCH LIBRARY

Not all e-books were born – or written – yesterday. Those available through the Early English Books Online Text Creation Partnership were written between three hundred and five hundred years ago, but now researchers can search their text as well as view page images. This resource draws from the Short Title Catalog of Early English books published between 1473 and 1700.

Ever wonder who Pauley Pavilion was named for? The Research Library's Department of Special Collections now holds the papers of Edwin Wendell Pauley (1903-81), who was the principal donor to the building fund for this facility and a UC regent for thirty-two years. A Los Angeles oil executive and real estate developer, he also served as United States representative to the Allied Reparations Committee during 1945-47 and advised Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson.

SCIENCE AND ENGINEERING LIBRARY

In December 2000 California Governor Gray Davis announced the creation of the California NanoSystems Institute, a joint enterprise of UCLA and UC Santa Barbara. The Science and Engineering Library has acquired electronic and print resources to fuel the institute's groundbreaking research in engineering new materials, devices, and systems at the level of atoms as well as for centers of learning including the Center for Embedded Networked Sensing, Institute for Cell Mimetic Space Exploration, and the new Department of Bioengineering.

Dekker Encyclopedias

Online access to twelve sources in subjects including biomaterials, colloid chemistry, nanostructures, and water science.

It's late in the day, and Carlos has already gotten home when he remembers – oops! – he has a paper due tomorrow at 4. What to do? His pal Eddie suggests just copying something off the Internet, but Carlos knows better.

I LEARNED THAT I COULD USE LIBRARY SOURCES FROM THE CONVENIENCE OF MY DORM.

He turns on his trusty computer, goes to <http://help.library.ucla.edu>, and clicks on “Chat Online.” “Need help searching for articles on economics topic,” he types into the a dialogue box. Almost instantly a reply appears: “Hi, Carlos. I’m here to help. Tell me more about what you need the articles for.” A few moments later Carlos and his virtual librarian have refined the topic of his paper and are searching useful databases together.

AND I EVEN GOT ONLINE HELP WITH A LIBRARIAN WHO TOOK ME ON A STEP-BY-STEP SEARCH TO FIND WHAT I WAS LOOKING FOR.

SERVICES

Carlos was only one of thousands of users who relied upon the Library's online reference service during 2003-04. The service began the year with a question about how to access audio reserves for a music history class about Mozart and ended with a question about how to look up dissertations, and users included UCLA and UC students, faculty, and staff as well as researchers in other states and even other countries.

When it comes to research queries, online reference offers the same advantages of traditional in-person reference assistance: the user can chat with a librarian in real time and see what resources to use and how to search them most effectively.

In cases where the research topic is vague or general, this approach helps the user refine and focus it; it also introduces him or her to useful databases and search techniques that will carry over to other projects.

In this way, online reference complemented and enhanced the activities of the Library's Information Literacy Program (ILP). Formalized from an initiative to an ongoing program during the 2003-04 fiscal year, the ILP staff of librarians from across campus focused their efforts through a number of new and ongoing activities.

Among the newest was the launch of "Bruin Success with Less Stress," a student-centered, interactive, online tutorial. Characters Carlos and Eddie, who represent typical students and give the content a lighthearted, informal tone, guide undergraduates through topics including intellectual property, file sharing, citing and documenting sources, project management, and academic dishonesty. Each section ends with an interactive quiz that gives immediate feedback on the answers, and after finishing each quiz, users can print a certificate of completion.

All of the Library's ongoing instructional efforts – orientation tours, in-library or in-class sessions focusing on specific subjects or resources, research guides for specific classes or subjects – fall under the umbrella of information literacy. But information literacy is most effective when it is closely integrated into regular classroom instruction, and two particular efforts illustrate this approach.

A sequentially tiered program developed in collaboration with faculty in the department of sociology integrated information literacy into the undergraduate curriculum. The first tier, part of Introductory Sociology, involved two online tutorials and a hands-on session on using relevant databases. In the second tier, incorporated into the introductory course on sociological research methods, students used group discussion time to choose topics, find relevant articles, and share methods, strategies, and results with the rest of the group.

The other effort focused on the Freshman Cluster Program, a particularly useful place to begin, since it was created to strengthen the intellectual skills of entering freshmen, introduce them to faculty research work, and expose them to instructional approaches such as seminars and interdisciplinary study. ILP librarians were assigned to each cluster and tailored their support according to the needs of each faculty member; activities ranged from creating course Web pages linking to useful resources and participating on class discussion boards to answer research questions to teaching a one-unit adjunct course and organizing historical dances.

An example of the success of this approach lies in the numbers: participants in Library instructional sessions increased more than forty percent over the previous fiscal year.

Too bad Eddie wasn't one of them; if he persists with his plan to download a paper from the Internet, he may find himself headed to the office of the Dean of Students!

GIVING OPPORTUNITIES

COLLECTION ENDOWMENT INITIATIVE

The Collection Endowment Initiative provides critically needed funds to acquire, preserve, and make accessible library materials in a particular subject area of interest. Collection endowments begin at $25,000, and the Library invites donors to make a single gift or to build an endowed fund over several years. Special bookplates reflecting the interests of the donor are designed in consultation with the donor and affixed to each item added to our collections through endowment funds.

CENTER FOR PRIMARY RESEARCH AND TRAINING

The Center for Primary Research and Training offers UCLA graduate students the opportunity to work with primary source materials in the Charles E. Young Research Library Department of Special Collections, thereby integrating special collections materials further into the teaching and research mission of the university. Support for this program provides fellowships for from five to ten participants each quarter; it also offers a special naming opportunity to interested donors.

HOW TO SUPPORT THE UCLA LIBRARY

DIRECT GIFT

Gifts of cash or by check or credit card have an immediate impact. Please make checks payable to The UCLA Foundation. To charge your gift to your credit card, please call 310/206-8526 for further information or make your gift online at <<https://giving.ucla.edu/library>>; our secure server uses advanced encryption and firewall technology to protect your information.

SECURITIES

The full market value of gifts of appreciated securities is tax deductible. In most cases, appreciation in the value of the security benefits the Library and is not taxable to the donor.

MATCHING GIFTS

Many employers will match employees' gifts to the Library. If your company is one of them, request a matching gift from the personnel or employee relations office, have it completed and signed, and include it with your gift; it may double or triple the impact of your contribution. Some companies also match gifts made by retirees and/or spouses.

PLANNED GIVING

Planned gifts include gifts through wills, living trusts, charitable trusts, charitable gift annuities, retirement plans, or other estate-planning arrangements. For further information about making a planned gift or bequest, visit the UCLA Office of Gift Planning Web site at <<http://www.giftplanning.ucla.edu>> or call 310/794-2334.

REAL ESTATE

Real property, either in entirety or in part, can be deeded to The UCLA Foundation to benefit the Library. It is possible to arrange a sizable tax deduction

LIBRARY ASSOCIATES

All Library supporters who make a discretionary gift in any amount become part of Library Associates. These discretionary funds have a significant impact on the Library's extensive collections and innovative services by helping to meet critical needs such as special opportunity acquisitions, comfortable study spaces, and technology upgrades. In appreciation, the Library extends courtesies such as borrowing privileges and event invitations.

HONOR WITH BOOKS

The UCLA Library invites you to participate in Honor with Books, a program designed to allow you to pay a lasting tribute to a special person in your life by placing a bookplate in his or her honor in one newly purchased book in the subject area of your choosing. Your $100 gift directed to the Honor with Books Fund will support a critical acquisitions need while honoring a loved one, friend, special teacher, or colleague in perpetuity.

by deeding a home to the Library, while continuing to occupy the property for life.

BEQUESTS

In writing a will or living trust or making other planned giving arrangements, donors can specify that they would like their estate to benefit the UCLA Library. In recognition, these individuals are welcomed as members of the prestigious First Century Society.

CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITIES

Donors can transfer money, securities, or real estate in trust to the Library and receive income for themselves or another for life. Donors may receive immediate tax benefits, and the Library ultimately receives the trust property.

QUALIFIED RETIREMENT PLANS

Naming The UCLA Foundation as a beneficiary of a qualified retirement plan (IRA, KEOGH, 401(k), or 403(b)) may be particularly advantageous by resulting in more assets being passed on to your heirs than if you make a bequest from other funds in your estate.
